

The Sun.

THIRTY-SIXTH YEAR.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Special Despatches to The Sun.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.

SPANISH AFFAIRS.

Secretary Seward had a long interview with the President to day upon Spanish affairs, and the impression prevails that "a proposition for the purchase of Cuba" was discussed.

PARTICULARS.

Troubles prevail among the employees of the Treasury Department, which has more force employed than any of the other Departments, at the prospect of discharge, which is held over them at this time for the purpose of keeping them from going home to vote in the States which hold elections next week. The Democrats are doing their best to induce Secretary McCulloch to hold the threat of discharge over his subordinates in order to keep them here all the election. It is due the Secretary to state that he has introduced no objection to any of his subordinates leaving him. In Cleveland, Ohio, and Indiana, going home to vote, but has freely given leave to all who apply without inquiring how they intended to go. It is not unusual for discharged employees in the Departments during the middle of the month, consequently the regular wholesale discharges in the Treasury Department are only got up for political effect.

THE FINANCES.

The National Intelligencer also contained an elaborate statement concerning national finances, purporting to be prepared by an official in the Treasury Department, under direction of Secretary McCulloch, which is nothing but a sketch of Deane's exploded extravagance. When it is considered how inadequately the Intelligencer glossed McCulloch a short time since, it is not likely he would allow one of his subordinates to prepare matter of this sort for the Intelligencer, much less a statement which reflected unfavorably upon the administration of the Department.

TENNESSEE.

It is understood that influential Tennesseans will protest to the President against taking Gen. George H. Thomas from Tennessee as a member of the War Cabinet, until after the election in that State is held. They have confidence in Gordon Granger, who is a strong person, and will be likely to use his power against the Republicans. The other Courts will not meet till Monday next, and secretary Schenck may still further postpone it.

THE PUBLIC PRESS.

The public debt statement will probably be published tomorrow or to-morrow, and may be some time before it is fully known what it will prove to be. The statement will show a much increase of debt over that of August last, because the new bonds were issued in the month of August.

INDIAN AFFAIRS.

Col. Wyman, agent for the Arapahoes and Cheyennes, was arrived here direct from Fort Laramie. He represents that the Indians within his command have been pursuing a very quiet life, and that there is no apprehension of trouble with them. The Indians have been skirmishing with the Comanches for three weeks. The Indians are in a dead lock with the Comanches, and the latter are holding a large camp near the buffalo and other game being wintered.

Wyman has been spending in the General Land Office the sum of $100,000 for the collection and preservation of a series of Indian documents, which he has collected in the country, but representing especially the geographic and historical character of the public land in the States.

PUBLIC LAND AFFAIRS.

The public debt statement will probably be published tomorrow or to-morrow, and may be some time before it is fully known what it will prove to be. The statement will show a much increase of debt over that of August last, because the new bonds were issued in the month of August.

THE ANEXATION OF TEXAS.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., Oct. 5.—The Register, in its issue of yesterday, strongly urges the adoption of immediate annexation of Texas, in view of the success of the Comanche in their war against the Indians.

The Register also urges that the right party in the regular convention, there to be held in the city of Mobile, should not follow the speaker's course, but that it is my opinion that the majority of the people who have been educated in the schools of the South, and with the exception of those who have been educated in the schools of the North, will not stand by the speaker's course.

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right.

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:

"I am sorry to say that I do not think you are right."

Mr. D. C. Jones, in speaking of the speaker's remarks, said:</